Bomb blast kills 1, wounds 2 in E. Afghan town

1/17/2014

A bomb detonated by armed militants rocked Murawar district of the eastern Kunar province 185km east of Kabul on Friday, killing one person and injuring two others, provincial police chief Habibullah Sayedkhili said.

"The armed Taliban hurled a hand grenade to target local police vehicle in a bazaar in Murawar town today but the attack claimed the life of a civilian and injured two others including a woman and a child," Sayedkhili told Xinhua.

No police has been harmed in the blast and all the victims are non-combatants, he added.

The mountainous Kunar province which borders Pakistan's tribal Bajawar area has been regarded as Taliban hotbed in the eastern region of the militancy-hit Afghanistan.
