Airport attacked in eastern Afghanistan, helicopter damaged

April 13, 2013

According to reports, militants fired at least three missiles on Jalalabad airport in eastern Nangarhar province of Afghanistan early Saturday morning.

All the three missiles landed inside the Jalalabad airport controlled by coalition security forces, damaging a civilian helicopter.

NATO-led coalition security forces without elaborating further confirmed the incident and said coalition security forces did not suffer any casualties following the missile attack.

No group has so far claimed responsibility behind the incident.

This comes as at least 8 Afghan security forces were killed in a similar attack carried out by militants in Jalalabad airport back in March.
