Car suicide bombing rocks Lashkargah city in Helmand province

September 26, 2013

A heavy explosion rocked southern Helmand province of Afghanistan late Thursday evening. The incident took place in Lashkargah, the central city of Helmand province,

According to local residents and eyewitnesses in the area, the incident took place after a vehicle laden with explosives was detonated by a suspected suicide bomber.

There are no reports regarding the casualties as a result of the incident. The main target of the suicide bomber was not clear.

No group including the Taliban militants has so far claimed responsibility behind the incident.

Provincial governor spokesman, Omar Zwak confirming the report said the incident left at least five people killed or injured.

Mr. Zwak further added that the suicide bomber was looking to enter Lashkargah city when he was recognized by Afghan police forces, and detonated his explosives.

He said an Afghan police officer was killed and five others including four civilians were injured following the explosion.
