Pakistani military fires nearly 100 rockets in Kunar province

September 3, 2014

Cross-border shelling from the other side of Durand Line continues as Pakistani military fired around 100 rockets in Kunar province on Tuesday.

Provincial police chief, Gen. Abdul Habib Syed Khel, confirmed that the rockets landed in Dangam and Shegal districts late Tuesday night.

Gen. Syed Khel said the shelling from the other side of Durnd Line did not incur any casualties to the local residents.

He said dozens of families were forced to leave their homes and flee the area as the shelling started.

At least five civilians including women and children were injured following cross-border shelling in Kunar province late last month.

Local officials in Kunar province are saying that the cross-border shelling from the other side of Durand Line still continues despite protests by government officials and local residents.

The Pakistani military has been shelling eastern provinces of Afghanistan including Kunar and Nuristan during the recent years which has left dozens of people have been killed or injured following the cross-border shelling.

According to reports, the Pakistani military has fired over 5,000 rockets in Kunar province during the past two years.
