5 local policemen martyred in separate attacks in Laghman

September 10, 2014

At least five members of the Afghan Local Police (ALP) forces were martyred in militants attack and roadside bomb explosion in eastern Laghman province of Afghanistan.

According to local government officials, both the incidents took place on Tuesday in Badpakh district.

The officials further added that two ALP officers were initially killed after a group of militants launched attack on a check post.

Three other policemen were killed after a vehicle of the ALP forces struck with an improvised explosive device (IED) while they were transferring the victims of the first incident, the officials said.

No group including the Taliban militants has so far claimed responsibility behind the incidents.

Laghman is among the relatively volatile provinces in eastern Afghanistan where anti-government armed militant groups are actively operating in a number of its remote districts and often carry out insurgency activities.

According to a statement released by the provincial media office, the incident took place on Tuesday when a number of Taliban insurgents ambushed a local police outpost.
