Civilians among 8 killed in Baghlan explosion

September 19, 2014

At least eight people including children were killed and 13 others were injured following an explosion in northern Baghlan province of Afghanistan.

The incident took place in Baraka district on Friday after an improvised explosive device (IED) went off.

District chief Taj Mohammad confirmed that four people were killed and eight others were injured following a roadside bomb explosion.

Mohammad further added that the blast took place in a market on Friday afternoon but the main target of the explosion was not clear.

In the meantime, another security official said at least eight people including a number of the Afghan Local Police (ALP) forces were killed and 13 others were injured following the blast.

No group including the Taliban militants has so far claimed responsibility behind the incident.

Taliban militants and other insurgents frequently use improvised explosive device (IED) to target Afghan and coalition security forces which normally leads to civilian casualties.
