Mortar shell explosion leaves 2 civilians dead in Herat

November 12, 2014

At least two civilians were reported killed following an explosion in a market in Shindand district of western Herat province.

According to local security officials the incident has taken place due to a mortar round explosion.

The officials said preliminary reports suggest at least two civilians were killed and another civilian was injured.

District police chief, Abdul Qayum Noorzai confirmed that the incident took place while the two civilians were collecting thrashes old metals which contained a mortar shell.

Noorzai further added that the two civilians were shopkeeper and members of a same family.

This comes as at least one civilian was killed and nine others were injured following mortar fire in eastern Jalalabd city on Tuesday morning.
