The international communist movement led by Marxism-Leninism-Maoism

2/2/2011

Greets with joy and favor the uprisings of the popular masses in Tunisia and Egypt that are overthrowing the regimes that oppress their country. They are anti-popular and tyrannical regimes, heirs of the old colonial system that has now worn neocolonial clothes. They are regimes slaves of U.S. imperialism, of the International Community that the U.S. government presides over, of the Zionist groups in Israel who are the colonial armed wing of the American imperialist bourgeoisie in Palestine and in the Middle East, of the world imperialist system.

Let their revolt be the dawn that heralds a new world!

The more the general crisis of the imperialist world system is getting worse, the more the corrupt and servile regimes slaves of the world imperialist system starve the masses, oppress the workers, in particular, they deny a decent future for young people and women, repress aspirations of so many people to a better world and the attempts to organize themselves to build it.

To overthrow these regimes is necessary to cope with the general, economic and environmental crisis produced by the world imperialist system and to progress. Without overthrowing those regimes, we cannot defend ourselves with some effectiveness and success against the plundering of the resources of our countries by multinational companies, by speculation even on foods, medicines, fuel and raw materials by the international market and its stock exchanges, by the exploitation of labor, by the usury of the financial market, of its institutions and its banks, by the political interference of the imperialist world system and of the imperialist powers that are at its head. No progress is possible.

We members of the International Communist Movement guided by Marxism-Leninism-Maoism call all progressive and communist organizations, parties and currents, all the democratic people, human rights advocates, and everyone who is in favor of justice, and freedom to fully support the revolt of the popular masses in Tunisia, Egypt and in the other countries suffering from similar conditions. The Arab and Muslim countries, from Iraq to Afghanistan, have already given and are still giving a great contribution to the liberation of peoples oppressed by U.S. imperialism and by its International Community, nailing down mounting numbers of imperialist troops.

We call for an emergency government with the participation and leadership of that most disadvantaged sections of society which is largest in number. We call for such government to organize the popular masses in order to be able to face militarily any armed attack by internal reactionary forces or by the imperialist powers, mainly US and Zionist imperialists.

We call the Communists around the world to support their struggle and their efforts to organize and give themselves a correct line.

In order to win and to advance it needs that in each country strong vanguard and mass organizations be formed among the masses, especially among workers, women and young people and that they establish strong bonds of brotherhood with each other at international level. As sooner in each country and on the international level this organizational web will be formed, the faster and larger the victory will be, the less painful and less disruptive the elimination of the old social systems will be, the more direct will be the start of the construction of a new world equal to the existing material and spiritual achievements of mankind.

The communist movement in this period has not yet fully recovered from the exhaustion of the first wave of proletarian revolution, from the decay of the first socialist countries until their disappearance and from the corruption and dissolution of many communist parties: the misfortunes it met in the second part of the last century. So today we Communists are not giving the liberation movement of oppressed peoples a contribution as great as that the communist movement gave in the first part of the last century. Anyway, guided by Marxism-Leninism-Maoism the communist movement is reviving both in the imperialist countries and in the countries oppressed by the imperialist powers, in fraternal union with all those who struggle determined to build a better world, at the level of civilization, culture, knowledge and productive forces attained by human kind. Communist parties will form stronger and stronger alongside with the exploited classes and oppressed peoples, to promote and guide their struggle, vanguard departments of their struggle. Already in several countries, primarily in Nepal where the new democratic revolution led by UCPN - M has already achieved great successes, the communist movement shows the power that Marxism-Leninism-Maoism gives to the liberation movement of oppressed peoples and to the emancipation movement of the popular masses and of the workers from the imperialist bourgeoisie and from other exploiting and ruling classes. We believe that the communist movement will soon be back at the head of the masses who struggle for social emancipation, for national liberation and for human progress, in every country to establish a system of social relations with a new and more advanced system of international relations.

Long live the rebellion of the oppressed people!

Long live the emancipation of the exploited classes!

The communist movement led the Marxism-Leninism-Maoism is alongside with those who struggle against imperialism, neo-colonialism, national oppression and class exploitation, and to radically eliminate all forms of exploitation and oppression of man on man once and for all!
